Updated: 02/07/2022 by Computer Hope The Google Play store provides users access to many types of applications (apps) and games to download and run on Android smartphones and tablets. In addition to these Android-enabled devices, you may also be able to download Google Play apps on your Chromebook, Windows PC, or Apple Mac. Many Google Play apps, like Facebook and YouTube, are free to download, while others cost a small fee. For instructions on installing Google Play store apps, select your device below. Neither Windows nor macOS computers include native support for Google Play apps, designed for Android. However, it is still possible to access Google Play and its services using an emulator like BlueStacks. Android emulators run a version of Android inside a program on your computer, allowing you to use android apps and features. Before running Google Play apps on your computer, you must first download and install an Android emulator. We recommend BlueStacks because of its popularity and available support. How to download an app, file, or program from the Internet. Note Some apps, especially games, may be more challenging to run on an emulator if your Windows computer does not have a touch screen. Once you have your emulator installed and open, follow the steps below to download the Google Play store apps. Open the Google Play Store app by selecting its icon from the emulator's home screen inside your emulator software. When prompted, log in with your Google username and password. Tip If you don't want to link your primary Google account to this emulator, use a spam e-mail. Select the Apps page from the navigation categories. At the top of the Apps screen, select the Categories tab. Scroll through the list of categories and select the desired apps category. A refined list of applications or games is displayed, based on your selected type or genre. Find the app or game you want to download and click the icon or name. Tip You can also search for an app or game using the Search text box at the top of the page. Click the green Install button on the app's store page to install it. Once installed, the app should appear on your emulator's "home screen" or app drawer. Since you're running an Android emulator, it should behave like a smartphone or tablet, allowing you to click the app's icon and run the app. Download from Google Play on an Android smartphone or tablet Follow the steps below to download an app or game from the Google Play store on an Android smartphone or tablet. Note iPhone and iPad users cannot use Google Play and its services. Instead, apps can be installed from the Apple App Store. Open the Google Play Store app by selecting its icon on your home screen or app drawer. Select the Apps page from the navigation buttons at the bottom of the screen. At the top of the Apps screen, select the Categories tab. Scroll through the list of categories and select the desired apps category. A refined list of applications or games is displayed, based on your selected type or genre. Find the app or game you want to download and tap the icon or name. Tip You can also search for an app or game by tapping the magnifying glass icon at the top of the page. Type the name of the app or game you want to find, and tap the Search button. On the app or game page, tap the green Install button. Download from Google Play on a Chromebook Some Chromebook models, including those manufactured by Google, include official support for Android apps. Follow the steps below to download an app or game from the Google Play store on a Chromebook. Access the Google Play app from the app drawer on the Chromebook. If the Google Play app is not in the app drawer, go to Search for the app you want to install or browse through the list of available apps. Click the name of the app or game. On the app or game page, click the Install button to install it on your Chromebook. Become a fire-breathing beast! Not so long ago, it would have been inconceivable that you could fit a camera, a health tracker, and a Tetris game all in one device. Now you can do that and more on your smartphone - provided you have the right apps. Google Play store gives you a wide selection of apps you can download on to your Android devices. If you're just looking for some great entertainment, you can also find music, eBooks, and movies on the Play store. It really is a one-stop shop. Google Play store has a huge range of apps, books, music, and movies available. You can find just about anything you need from time trackers for your office to games for your kids. Google Play Store is a great resource for apps, games, books, and movies that you can use on your phone. You simply need to log in to your Google account to start purchasing apps on your mobile device. You can also run the Google Play Store application on your PC, however you will need to use an emulator - which is pretty straightforward. You are able to choose which apps you want to see on your app menus or even add nicknames to your devices for easier identification. If you should ever lose one of your devices, you can simply hide them so they will no longer display when you make any future purchase or download any app from your computer. Google Play store has thousands of apps, books, music, and movies available for download. You can find applications for almost any area of your life, work or play. Set up your payment information by logging in to your Google Play account and clicking on "Add a payment method". From there, you will get instructions on how to input your billing information. Safety first You don't need to worry about putting your payment details online as Google is serious about the due diligence to keep you safe. Google Play Protect runs safety checks on the Play store applications before you download them. This helps you avoid any malware that might cause harm to your devices. Google also knows how much people rely on user-reviews to decide on purchases, and they take their product reviews seriously. In order to combat the growing industry trend of fake reviewers, they have already set up measures to prevent them. Google has deployed a system that combines human intelligence and machine learning in order to detect deceptive reviews and enforce policy violations against accounts and developers who use them. This way, you're sure that the reviews you read on the Play store are posted by actual users and are helpful in your decision making. Where can you run this program? The Google Play Store will run directly on your Android device. Running the application on your PC will require an emulator. You can also get the Google Play extension for your Chrome browser for easy access and convenient download options. Is there a better alternative? If you don't feel like using the Google Play Store to purchase your Android apps, there are a few alternatives for you to choose from. Front and center is the Amazon App Store for Android. Amazon is actually Google's biggest competitor when it comes to distributing mobile applications for end users. They offer a wide selection of apps, books, movies, and songs at very low prices. Check them out if you want to save a couple of bucks. Another option is GetJar, which offers a catalog of thousands of apps and games. It's quite popular among long-time Android users and its website is one of the download industry's oldest. We also like F-Droid, however, unlike the sites mentioned above, F-Droid only offers free and open source apps as it is a non-profit organization. You can join their community to help out or donate funds to creators - it's a great way to help support app developers! The Google Play Store is the most efficient and secure way of getting the apps you need on your Android device. It's also very simple to synchronize all your devices - all you need is a Google account. In addition, the company is very reputable for security and keeping data safe. You can rest easy knowing that your personal details are secure. Should you download it? Yes, highly recommendable. You can visit their website and simply log in with your existing Google account or create a new one. It's super easy! If you really need to use the mobile application on your computer, you will need to use an emulator like BlueStacks.
